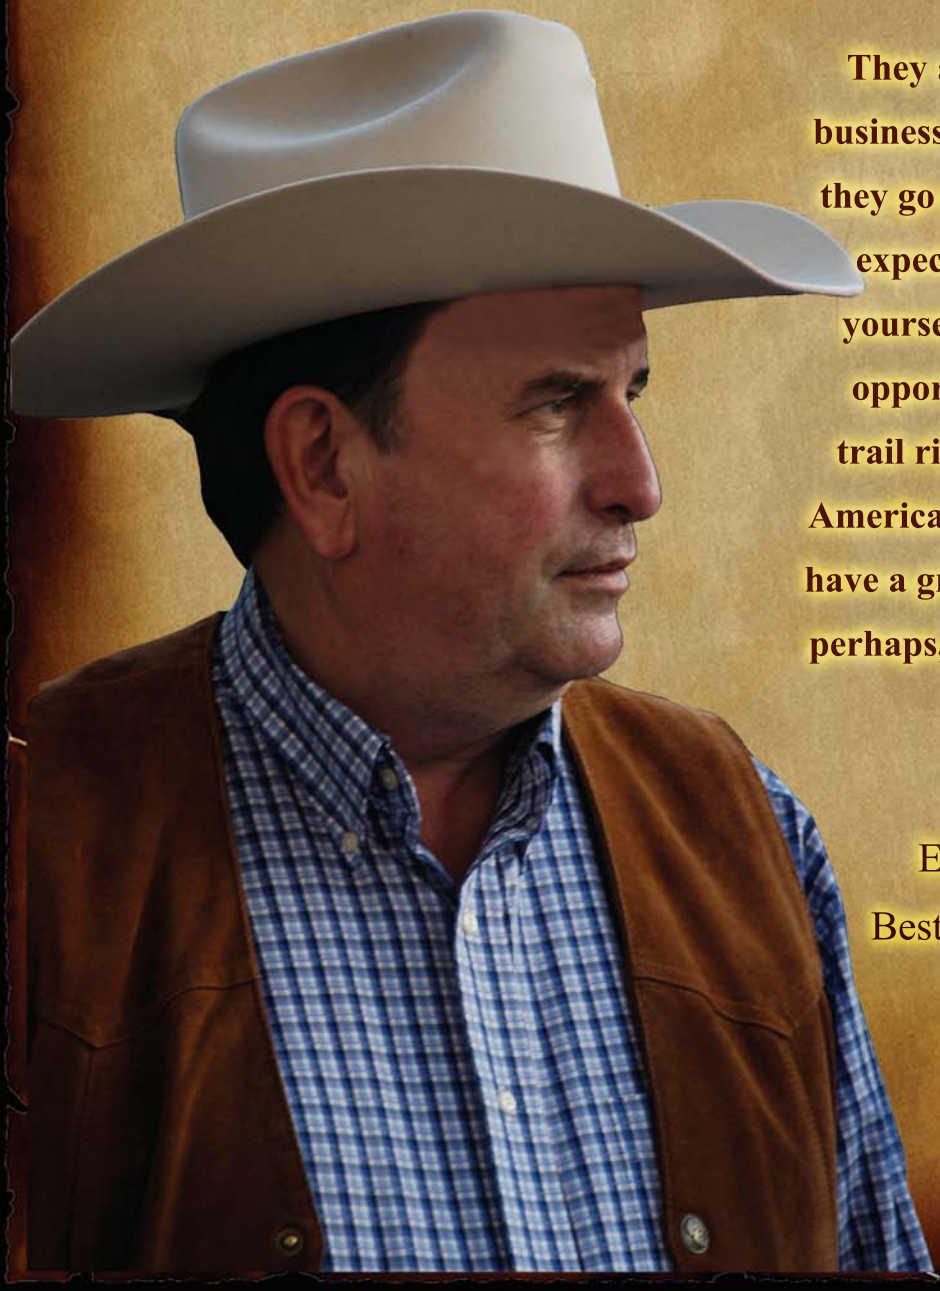
My Personal Pledge To You:

I've ridden all over this great country from the Atlantic Ocean, to the Pacific Ocean and everything in between, and Fentress County, Tennessee, my new second home, is a hidden gem. A true equine paradise. The folks at Tennessee Recreational Properties are truly equine enthusiasts and will treat you first class – like family.



They are the kind of people you do business with on a handshake and then they go over and above to exceed your expectations. Do your family and yourself a favor and don't miss this opportunity to experience the best trail riding and family hospitality in America. I guarantee you this: you will have a great trail riding experience, and perhaps, find the home of your dreams.
